

Amidst the busy life of a leader for the nation and a preacher to the worlds, the Prophet ﷺ never neglected the rights of his wives.

On the contrary, he always sought to care for them and pay attention to their feelings and needs, teaching all men how to treat their women.

THE PROPHET GATHERS HEARTS BEFORE PLATES

In a moment of jealousy, one of the Prophet's wives broke a plate out of frustration in front of his companions.

He smiled gently and said, "Your mother has felt jealousy," as he personally gathered the broken pieces around them, without reprimanding her.

Then, he took one of her plates and gave it to the wife whose plate was broken, ensuring fairness between them.

IN THE DESERT: THE PROPHET'S LESSON IN KINDNESS TO WOMEN

While the caravan was moving quickly, influenced by the melodious voice of the camel driver, the Prophet ﷺ, with his compassionate eye, noticed that the women might be harmed by the swift movement.

So he gently said, "Take it easy, O Anjasha, do not break the glass vessels," highlighting his ﷺ sensitivity and concern for their comfort and safety, showing deep attention to even the smallest details of their emotions.

THE PROPHET'S CARE FOR HIS WIVES ﷺ

(MESSAGES OF LOVE IN THE SIMPLEST DETAILS)

WOMEN ARE HONORED AND PURE IN ISLAM

One day, the Prophet ﷺ asked Lady Aisha, may Allah be pleased with her, to hand him a cloth while she was menstruating.

She said, “I am menstruating,” thinking that she was impure.

But the Prophet ﷺ gently taught her, saying,

“Your menstruation is not in your hand,” meaning you are honored and pure in Islam.

KINDNESS IN DIFFICULT TIMES

His tenderness was not limited to a particular wife. Maymunah, one of the Mothers of the Believers, may Allah be pleased with her, narrated:

“The Messenger of Allah ﷺ used to lie with me while I was menstruating, with a cloth between us.” This was not just about sleeping next to her; it was an expression of the Prophet’s ﷺ affection and comfort for her, even in her most difficult moments.

In a land where not only were women denied their rights, but were also killed in their infancy, the Prophet of Islam came and abolished all these harmful customs. He taught all men not only to respect women but also to care for their feelings and take into account their vulnerabilities.

These are glimpses of how the Prophet ﷺ treated his wives. We invite you to discover more about this shining aspect of his life.

A MESSAGE OF LOVE!

Lady Aisha, may Allah be pleased with her, said, “I used to drink while menstruating, and then the Prophet ﷺ would take the cup and drink from the same spot where I had placed my mouth.”

This small gesture was a message of love and reassurance, showing her that her state of menstruation did not diminish her status in his eyes, but rather increased his gentleness and affection toward her.